

SELCA: Operational Teams

The Operational Teams Community of Practice (CoP) offers a unique opportunity for teams across South East London to reflect on our own practice in light of the practice of colleagues. We aim for the community to help us learn with and from others, and to help us all consider approaches that may work and identify what will not work, in improving cancer services across our organisations.

The group took part in an experiential learning process in which members swapped roles in order to better understand challenges and build positive, joined up working relationships.

Valuable to hear from people in different roles who link to my role. I met people from different specialties who gave me tips on managing my time and workload from an understanding point of view.
